MEDIA RELEASE

SVSG Receives Book Donation from New Zealand Teacher to Support Children's Learning

11 December 2025

Apia, Samoa

The Samoa Victim Support Group (SVSG) is grateful to receive a generous donation of children's books from Ms. Penny Dawber, a teacher from Auckland, New Zealand, whose passion for education and reading has reached across the ocean to support young lives in Samoa.

The books, shipped all the way from New Zealand, were formally presented yesterday at the SVSG main office in Apia by Ms. Dawber's niece, Malinnah Logoia, on behalf of her aunt and were received by one of SVSG's board member, Afioga Lefaoalii Unutoa Auelua-Fonoti.

In her message to SVSG, Ms. Penny Dawber shared the heart behind her contribution:

"As a teacher I know how wonderful books are for children and how reading helps their learning in all areas, but also their imagination and creativity. Blessings to you all."

SVSG President Siliniu Lina Chang expressed heartfelt appreciation, noting that the donation comes at a time when the organisation continues to strengthen its educational support for children under its care.

"We are deeply thankful for Ms. Dawber's kindness. Books open doors for our children—not only to learn, but to dream, explore, and imagine a brighter future. This gift speaks to the power of compassion and the global community that stands with SVSG in uplifting vulnerable children," said Siliniu.

SVSG extends its sincere gratitude to Ms. Dawber and her family for their generosity and commitment to the wellbeing of children in Samoa. Such acts of kindness continue to inspire hope and contribute to nurturing safe, supportive, and empowering environments for all children under SVSG's care.
